The National Flag of Pakistan was designed by the Founder of Pakistan, Mr. Muhammad Ali Jinnah. The flag itself is dark green with a white bar, a white crescent in the middle, and a five-pointed star. Each color and symbol used in the flag has its significance. The white bar and the dark green field symbolize minorities and the Muslim majority. The crescent on the flag represents progress and the five radial star symbolizes light and knowledge.

However, there is a controversial belief that the original designer of the flag was not Quaid but Amiruddin Khudai. Some believe that it was none of them but Master Afzal Hussain, yet it is not clear who the real designer was. According to the government's webpage, the designer was Quaid-e-Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah.
